

List of Contributors

Christine Lei completed her doctorate in the History of Education at OISE/University of Toronto in 2003. Her dissertation was entitled “Academic Excellence, Devotion to the Church and the Virtues of Womanhood: Loretto Hamilton, 1865-1970.” She is currently researching and writing the history of female hockey in Hamilton, Ontario, and the experience of women teachers-in-training at the Ontario Normal College.

Heidi MacDonald is an assistant professor in the Department of History at the University of Lethbridge. Her recent publications include articles in Acadiensis (Fall 2003) and CCHA Historical Studies (2003). She is currently studying PEI women and university education before 1942

Mark G. McGowan is the Principal of St. Michael’s College in the University of Toronto and an Associate Professor of History and Christianity & Culture. He has published widely on the history of Christianity in Canada including the award-winning The Waning of the Green: Catholics, the Irish, and Identity in Toronto, 1887-1922 (McGill-Queen’s, 1999). He has just completed Into the Deep: Michael Power, Catholicism, and the Canadian Frontier, the first full-length biography of Toronto’s first bishop. Currently he is embarking on a history of religion and spirituality on Canada’s many frontiers, and completing a study of Canada’s Catholics and the Great War

Jessy C. Pagliaroli is a doctoral candidate in the Centre for the Study of Religion at the University of Toronto. He is currently writing his doctoral dissertation on the apparitions of the Virgin Mary at Marmora, Ontario and the larger Marian movement within Catholicism.

Timothy Pearson holds a B.A. Honours degree in History from Bishop’s University and a Master’s degree from the Centre for Medieval Studies at the University of Toronto. He is currently a Ph.D. candidate in Canadian History at McGill University, working on a dissertation dealing with hagiography, sanctity, and the lived religion of faith communities in colonial Canada.

Elizabeth M. Smyth is Associate Professor in the Department of Curriculum Teaching and Learning at Ontario Institute for Studies in Education of the University of Toronto. She is engaged in a course of research on the history of English Canadian women religious in education, health care and social service.

Huguette Turcotte, M.I.C., started her missionary career in the Philippines in 1953 and ended it in Hong Kong in 2000. In between, she was Secretary General of her congregation and editor of its bilingual mission magazines for many years. Sr. Turcotte holds B.A. and B. of Music degrees. Her work experience includes service with the Canadian Religious Conference in Ottawa and with the Catholic International Organization for Cinema and Audio-Visuals in Brussels. Now retired, she still works part-time on historical research at her convent in Laval in Quebec.